Rubbolite

Flexible Lamps, a major manufacturer of incandescent and LED lighting for the commercial vehicle market, employed more than 100 people at it's site in Rookwood Way. Major customers were Volvo, DaimlerChrysler, Scania, Ford, GM, Partco, and SDC. The firm also had manufacturing and distribution facilities in France and Harlow. Known as 'Rubbolite', the factory in Haverhill employed predominantly women. Within months of it's takeover by US firm, Truck-Lite in December 2006, the Haverhill factory was closed.
